Steve: Hi Carol, do you think my presentation materials are sufficient?

Carol: Yeah, I checked your materials and it is not so bad.

Steve: What part is good and where is not?

Carol: The beginning and the end are fine, but I think you should change the order of support messages. That would make your argument more clear.

Steve: I see, anything else?

Carol: You should talk with confidence. That is always important in presentations.

Steve: OK, I'll do my best. Thank you very much, Carol.

Carol: Your welcome!

Brad: Let's discuss it further.

Today’s pointに注意しながら、以下の文章を読みましょう。

Steve: Hi, Carol. Have you finished to read the presentation materials? Would you give me some feedbacks on my presentation?

Carol: Sure. They are mostly good.

Steve: I wonder whether my logic is correct and persuasive. Would you let me know your opinion?

Carol: Your reasoning is convincing enough and the introduction and conclusion are quite easy to understand. There is probably room for improvement in the order of the support messages. Changing order of some contents would make your presentation more clear.

Steve: That sounds nice idea, thank you. How about the creativity?

Carol: Your solution is very unique. It only remains for you to talk with confidence, which helps your opinion to be powerful.

Steve: I’m glad you say that. I’ll do my best. Thank you for your advice!

Carol: Your welcome. Good luck, Steve.
