In the middle of 19th century, French artists were shocked by Japanese ukiyoe. One of the greatest French artists, Monet was fascinated and collected more than 200 of them. Japanese art has influenced French artists since this period.

Today young French people experience Japanese art in new ways. Many French book stores sell DRAGON BALL, NARUTO and so on. Characters’ faces clearly express their feelings. Their movements are shown in many ways. The stories are simple and clear. For these reasons, manga has become very popular in the last few decades.

French people have enjoyed Japanese art for hundreds of years.
