

Reading Aloud

Reading aloud is very important if one wants to be good at speaking another language. Reading aloud can help a person become more familiar with the pronunciation of common and difficult words in another language. It can also help one become more used to the sounds of another language. If a person is used to the sounds of another language, he or she can improve his or her listening comprehension. Reading aloud in another language can be challenging, but it has a lot of benefits.

You should begin with this sentence: One day, Anna asked Maria to read aloud with her.

